Yes, I thought you would want to know that.

Thank you Heather,

The 30-day timeframe is very important for several COA items. It's handy to know that November 30th is the date.

Frieda,
In general when the deadline falls on a weekend or holiday staff provides extra day. Given that the decision letter with the conditions and particularly edits to that condition were published on October 29th then that is the date that should be used for compliance with specific timeframes.

The 30 day deadline for filing an application for parking lot with Berkeley would fall on Saturday, November 28th if I did the math correctly. Therefore, based on the general rule, the drop dead deadline would be Monday November 30th unless that is also a holiday for Berkeley. No extra days will provided because of holidays in the middle of the timeframe. This is also a general policy.

Subject: Question about 30 day rule for Berkeley filing

Hi Heather,

I had a question about the Bentley School's COA, specifically around the 30 day filing date with the City of Berkeley for the parking lot parcel. As the final COA was published on October 29, I presume that 30 days from the 29th would be November 28th, the date in which the school must file. As offices are closed on November 26th and 27th for the Thanksgiving Holiday, what is your interpretation of the 30 day rule? And, specifically, what would the drop dead deadline date be to file?

Thanks for helping with the math, Heather.

All the best,

FKE
