For additional information, consult the following websites that display Oakland crimes.

Please keep in mind that these websites are designed to provide a snapshot of what offenses have been committed in which areas, but they may not always be up to date.

1. Oakland Crimespotting.org

This is a private company not working through either the City of Oakland or OPD, but they use OPD data. You can search by beat.

2. CrimeMapping.com

This website was created and is managed and updated by the City of Oakland IT Department, so all inquiries or comments should go to them. You can search by beat, crime, neighborhood, and other criteria.

3. Crimereports.com

This is a private vendor working with the City of Oakland to display crime stats. You can search by crime, area, or beat.

Additionally, OPD offers a Calls for Service web application. This new program allows the public to see the volume of calls for service and police activity throughout the city. <http://mapgis.oaklandnet.com/callsforservice/>

Calls for service are different from reported crimes. Calls for service are any calls to the department that require an officer to respond. These range from violent crimes to barking dogs; anything where an officer is needed to come to the location. A law may not necessarily have been broken, such as loud arguments, accidents, injured animal, etc.

Reported crimes are violations of state law such as robbery, theft, arson, vandalism, homicide, etc. The attached list is reported crimes only.
