Subject: Port of Oakland Update, Tuesday 8/19, 9:00 pm

Good evening,

I apologize for the lack of formal updates today, there have been many moving parts that are difficult to recount in total.

As you can see from the Maritime Division update below, all operations are currently normal at the Port of Oakland.

At 3 pm today, the Zim Piraeus departed the Oakland International Container Terminal and after a brief ocean-going voyage returned to the PortsAmerica Outer Harbor (PAOH) Terminal, where it is currently berthed and being worked by a full complement of ILWU labor this evening. A group of approximately 50 individuals peacefully protested during the initiation of the evening shift, but labor was able to enter the terminal without incident. We greatly appreciate the assistance of local law enforcement, terminal management and ILWU labor who were all successful in facilitating the continued flow of international commerce for all customers at the Port of Oakland.

In the coming days and weeks, Port of Oakland management and our stakeholders will continue to seek out opportunities for additional dialogue on this issue. We absolutely welcome any thoughts and input that you might have.

As always, please do not hesitate to contact me directly if I may be of assistance or provide additional insight into these recent events.

Best,

Matt Davis

Port of Oakland Maritime Operations Update 8/19/14

9:00 pm

Dear Maritime Stakeholder:

All marine terminals have been open for business today.

At about 6:30 pm this afternoon, protestors resumed demonstrating in the Port's Maritime area (seaport) and are located near the Ports America Outer Harbor Terminal (PAOH). This protest is related to the Gaza-Israel conflict in the Middle East and the Zim Piraeus currently at PAOH.

Law enforcement is present and has been keeping access open to PAOH. Labor has reported as scheduled with no negative impact. All terminals are operating normally. Port staff is monitoring the situation closely and will provide updates as more information becomes available or the situation changes.

Best Regards,
Port of Oakland
Maritime Team
